To Whom It May Concern:

I am very pleased to speak on behalf of David Mullaney. I have known David for the past seven years; we first met while I was serving as Chaplain at George Washington University In Washington, DC.

David is an extremely dependable, responsible and reliable person. He is a person of deep conscience and compassion. He is wonderfully curious and concerned about life in all its dimensions. He is particularly sensitive and gracious with others. He cares deeply about people. Over the past several years, I have personally witnessed David give his love and attention to the the fatherless-son of a co-worker. David became part of this boy's family; he involved his own family also. Other children sometimes joined in. David has a wonderful ability to shown his concern and to involve others. And once David becomes involved with people, he continues to display his commitment and concern. Once David becomes a friend to someone, he is a friend for life.

In my vocation as a minister, I have very seldom come across someone who is as considerate of others and responsible as David Mullaney. The world needs more people like David. His intelligence and various experiences with people of different cultures; his ability to organize and to teach; his commitment to compassion and justice throughout the world; his deep religious convictions and compassion, are outstanding gifts. I know that wherever goes, David will makes outstanding contributions to the life of the community he shares.

I am very glad to know David Mullaney as a friend , colleague and compañero.

Sincerely,

(Rev.) William P.C. Crawford
